24, the date when the steamer left Honolulu. The statement that it was the intention of the United States Government to restore Lilluokalani to power was received with great disapproval. It was not believed that the Queen would return to power unless she was assured of armed American support.

"The Hawaiian Gazette" strongly protests against her restoration.

ANXIETY IN WASHINGTON.

KEEN INTEREST IN THE HAWAHAN SITUATION.

OFFICIALS ON THE ALERT FOR DEFINITE NEWS FROM WILLIS-HOW HIS EXPECTATIONS WERE DISAPPOINTED WHEN HE REACHED HONOLULU-THE EX-QUEEN'S PROPOSED BARGAIN-

THE MINISTER'S REPORT. Washington, Dec. 9.-At no time since the country was informed that Queen Liliuokalani was dethroned, and that the new Provisional Government desired to have Hawaii annexed to the United States, has interest in the Hawaiian situation been so keen in Administration circles as it is to-day. The expected arrival of vessels bringing news of what happened when the policy of the President and Secretary Gresham was known to the people of Honolulu has placed officials of the various Executive Departments From the manner and bearing of State Department officials it would appear that they had merely a languid interest in the outcome of the whole affair. But Naval officers made no attempt to conceal their great desire information. They made frequent inquiry of newspaper men as to the latest news, and commented and prophesied concerning the out-

The dispatch from Auckland stating that news of the Administration's policy had been received at Honolulu and had created much excitent was read with interest by officials, but it was too meagre to afford satisfaction.

Monday next is the day when the important news is expected to arrive. The regular mail steamer from Honolulu is due in San Francisco on that day. According to the Auckland dispatch, the steamer Monowai, bringing information of what the President intended to do, arrived in Honolulu on November 23, while the mail steamer due in San Francisco on Monday sailed thence on December 4, leaving eleven days to be covered in the press dispatches. If those eleven days did not develop something important enough to have a prominent place in the history of Hawaii, officials of the Government will be greatly surprised, and not a few of them extremely disappointed. There is also a chance that something definite may be heard before Monday through Yokohama dispatches. The mail steamer China, which is due in Yokohama to-morrow by Chinese time, was scheduled to leave Honolulu on November 28.

Successive arrivals from Honolulu without news of importance, except the negative fact that no steps have yet been taken by Minister Willis to carry out his instructions, lead Senators and others here who are in a position to receive from different sources fragmentary intimations of actual facts to construct, out of these intimations dropped from time to time, a connected resume of the situation, which, in the absence of any direct news to the contrary, is accepted as highly probale. It runs about as WHAT WILLIS EXPECTED TO FIND.

Minister Willis unquestionably left Washington with the belief that the result of communicating to the authorities in Hawaii the instructions with which he was burdened would be the immediate and peaceful restoration of Queen Liliuokalani to the throne. He permitted intimations to that effect to escape him as he his interviews with the President and Secretary Gresham, and they were published in a Washington dispatch to "The Baltimore Sun" of the Gresham, and they were published in a Washington dispatch to "The Baltimore Sun" of the following day.

Mr. Willie's instructions contemplated the publication in Honolulu of Secretary Gresham's summary of Mr. Blount's report, as afterward made public here, a copy of which was furnished to him two days before his final departure from Washington. It was anticipated that on the mere announcement of the attitude of the United States Government, as disclowed in this report from the Secretary of State to the President, the Provisional Government, which as a nounced when it came into existence that it was established to "exist until terms of union with the United States of America have been negotiated and agreed upon," would immediately step down and out on being officially advised through the President of the United States that the Government of the United States that the abdication of the Queen, which distinctly size down and out on being officially advised through the President of the United States that the abdication of the Queen, which distinctly size down and out on being officially advised through the President of the United States that the abdication of the Queen, which distinctly size that it was to continue "until such times as the Government of the United States that the abdication of the Queen, which distinctly size that the distinction of the Queen, which distinctly size that the Advised that it was to continue "until such times as the Government of the President of the Willies States that the abdication of the Spates and the Advised that the abdication of the Queen, which distinctly size that the Government of the Intel States that the abdication of the Queen, which distinctly size that the Advised that the president of the Pr arms and all the best fighting elements of the island at the command of the Provisional Government, and a body of rugged and determined men of Anglo-Gaxon stock, who declined to relinquish what they had gained without fighting for its retention. This was something not contemplated by his instructions, and something which he could not overcome without going beyond the "Constitutional limits of Executive power" and committing an act of war without the authorization of Congress.

THE EX-QUEEN WANTED TO SELL OUT.

Here another and almost comical element of difficulty came in. The ex-Queen, surrounded as she is by all accounts with wily advisers, not parsaw an opening to give a new turn to affairs. Having obtained a final admission from the Chief Executive of the United States that a great wrong had been done to her, she came to the conclusion that it was her privilege to have a voice as to the manner in which that wrong should be righted. She accordingly decided, so it is said, that instead of taking back the empty honor of the Queenship without adequate funds to gratify her expensive tastes, and with her powers so shorn by the obnoxious Constitution of 1887, which she had tried to overthrow, she would rather take a lump sum in cash and give up her title, together with the valuable crown lands and all the other belongings. Half a million dollars is the sum mentioned as having been suggested by her as adequate compensation for the wrong done to her by the United States and for her rights relinquished. The prospect of having this snug sum in bank to do with as she pleased, and of thus being made independent of the necessity of constantly asking Mr. Spreckels or Banker Damon for temporary loans, as Mr. Blount's report discloses that her constant habit has been, was much more attractive to the assert of Kalakaua than the resumption of an amonty dignity which she might not be able to ticularly burdened with conscientious scruples, retain three months unless the United States guaranteed the stability of her Government, which Mr. Willis was unable to promise. This proposition, it is asserted, is among the matters which Mr. Willis has laid before the State Department and asked instructions upon.

WILLIS'S REPORT TO GRESHAM. In brief, it is said, Mr. Willis reports:

'A condition of things in the islands which makes it impossible for him to restore the status quo without a direct resort to force, which is forbidden to him.

"An indisposition on the part of the Queen to resume the Government without guarantees of protection from the United States.

"A proposition to condone the wrong which the United States, by its Executive, admits has been done, and to relinquish all her titular rights, as well as whatever claim she may have upon the valuable crown lands, for the lump sum of $500,000."

This theory of the situation, as already said, has been pieced out from disconnected hints has been pieced out from disconnected hints derived from the best sources of information, and is generally accepted as being very near the truth.

Mr. Thurston has gone to San Francisco so as to be close at hand when the next steamer arrives from Hawaii, and ready, if the necessity appears, to return to Honolulu and take the lead in another revolutionary movement, if there should be any apparent necessity for this course.

A TALK WITH MR. THURSTON.

NOT GOING TO HAWAH-HIS COMPANION, MR. CASTLE, MAY BEAR DISPATCHES TO PRESIDENT DOLE, HOWEVER.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.)
Omaha, Neb., Dec. 9.—Among the passengers on the westbound overland flyer of the Union Pacific this afternoon was Lorin A. Thurston, the Hawaitan Minister at Washington. Mr. Thurston is speeding to San Francisco as fast as steam can carry him. He will arrive there Tuesday morning. A reporter boarded the incoming train at an Iowa station and found Mr. Thurston snugly ensconced in a Puliman sleeper, surrounded by two massive valises and many newspapers. Directly across the aisle of the sleeper sat H. N. Castle, Editor of "The Honolulu Advertiser." Mr. Castle is accompanying Mr. Thurston on his trip across the continent. When first approached both men maintained much reti-cence. When the reporter displayed a sheet of a cable dispatch from Auckland announcing the latest news from Hawaii both became deeply interested and talked at some length upon the new state of affairs as evidenced by to-day's late dispatches. Minister Thurston, however, was exceedingly guarded in his remarks whenever any reference was made to President Cleveland's policy toward Ha-

"My present trip to San Francisco is, as a matter of course, caused by the present state of affairs at Hawaii. I have come direct from Washington and shall proceed as rapidly as possible to my destination. When I left Washington I made no attempt to keep the matter in secrecy. I did not go around with a brass band and notify the newspapers that I was going, but I left in the usual way. It is not true that I received my passports. That rumor is not based on the slightest semblance of fact. The object of my trip to San Francisco is to make that city my temporary headquarters

Mr. Castle will sail from San Francisco for Honolulu at the earliest opportunity.

NOTHING BUT "HOSPITAL ISLANDS." Lima, Ohio, Dec. 9.-Dr. P. H. Brooks, of this city. recently made an extended visit to the Hawalian Islands in search of health. In speaking yesterday of the annexation of the islands, he said: "What do I think of the President's course? Why, "What do I think of the President's course? Why, I think he has done exactly right. What do we want with the islands? They don't amount to anything. I would let the Queen govern her subjects the same as she has been doing. She gets only $75,000 a year to maintain her court, and every one would be contented if left alone. The acquisition of these islands would be of no benefit to the United States. This country enjoys almost all the trade from there now, while if we took them under the protection of the Stars and Stripes it would give us that much more to take care of and worry over, besides assuming a large national debt. There are some 2,500 or 4,000 lepers on the islands, and that is about all they amount to—hospital islands."

ADMIRAL SKERRETT AT YOKOHAMA. Washington, Dec. 9.-A cable message received at the Navy Department from Rear Admiral Skerrett, dated Yokohama, December 9, briefly states that he

HE HAS RECENTLY RETURNED FROM BRAZIL-HIS IMPRESSIONS OF MELLO AND

HIS CAUSE. Bishop George W. Peterkin, of Virginia, who has been in charge of the mission of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Brazil, arrived in New-York from the South on Friday. Bishop Peterkin's trip to Brazil was begun last July, and was his first episcopal visit to South America. He is here now to attend the anniversary and annual business meeting of the American Church Missionary So-

The Bishop is a young man of large and strong build and full of life and energy. He brings fresh news from Brazil and new impressions of the state of affairs there. To a Tribune reporter who saw him yesterday afternoon at the office of the Rev. William A. Newbold, secretary of the American Church Missionary Society, in Astor Place, Bishop Peterkin spoke enthusiastically of his trip and his

Rio Grande to Sul, and while it is many miles south of Rio, going on, I nevertheless had a little taste of th war. I had been in Rio Grande do Sul since the latter part of August, visiting the missions and our working places in the interior. By the latter part of September I had completed my visit and was ready to come home. I came down to the coast from Porto Alegre, only to find at Rio Grande that transportation to Rio de Janefro had been cut off. Through the influence of the Rev. John G. Meen, our missionary at Pelotas, however, I managed to secure passage for Rio aboard a little Norwegian propeller called the Norte, which was about to try to carry a cargo of provisions into Rio harbor. The boat was only of 29 tons burden and during most of the trip up the coast, we were under water. I was constantly reminded of Jules Verne's Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea. The trip was a terrible one, but after ten days we arrived at the trip not be constantly reminded of Jules and the trip was a terrible one, but after ten days we arrived at the trip up to colors. We were signalled to archor in the roadstead, and of course complied. Soon a barge put off from one of Mello's ships and came out to us. The officer said to our captain. I know you are flying the Norwegian colors, but we know very well, too, that you are laden with provisions for Pelvoto, and we don't intend to have strangers come here and feed our enemies. The officer's surmine was correct. Nevertheless, the captain of the Norte managed to get ashore shortly afterward, and I went with him.

"I stayed some days in Rio de Janeiro, and all the time there was lightling going on about us. The sound of cannon and bursting bombs was on all sides of us, and fragments of a shell fell on the house where I was staying. Still, there seemed to have been little real damage caused in the city. The cannonading of Mello's men appeared very poor, and the greater part of their shooting was without effect.

"It is very difficult to get authentic accounts of the revolution, even in Rio de Janeiro, and he greater part of their shooting was without effect."

"It is very difficult to we war. I had been in Rio Grande do Sul since the latter part of August, visiting the missions and our working places in the interior. By the latter part

Of the mission work in Brazil, Bishop Peterkin speaks enthusiastically. He believes that there is a great field there for labor.

Bishop Peterkin will speak at three meetings today: At 10-20 a.m., in Christ Church, Clinton and Harrison sts., Brooklyn; at 4 p.m., in the Church of the Incarnation, Madison-ave, and Thirty-fifth st., and at 7-30 p. m., in Christ Church, Brooklyn, E. D., Bedford-ave., north of Division-ave.

THE INJURY TO THE SHIP ACCIDENTAL A DISPATCH FROM CAPTAIN CROSSMAN OF THE AMERICA RECEIVED BY FLINT & CO.-MINISTER MENDONCA RETURNS TO WASHINGTON.

Salvador de Mendonça, the Brazilian Minister at Washington, who came on here to confer with Charles R. Flint regarding the accident to the America, returned to Washington on the midnight train last night. He had received a dispatch from Captain Crossman, of the been able to read it, as it was in the Flint cipher. When Mr. Filint translated it, it simply said that the injury to the America was purely accidental. The captain said nothing about his having been hurt by any explosion. Mr. Filint said last night The captain said nothing actions that he considered that De Gama had stated the stact position of the followers of Mello in his pronunciamento, in which he declared for the Empire.

The Republic of Brazil, Mr. Flint said, was as big in area as the United States, and the territory held by the insurgents about as big as Manhattan Island. He naturally has full confidence in the success of Pelxoto, it is thought that the America will be ready to sail from Martinique the latter part of this week, and will meet the Nictheray at Pernambuco. The Santant and Firating will be there about the same time.

Mello is waiting to give battle to the ships coming down from the north at the Quarantine island, off the entrance to the harbor of Rio. He has the Aquidaban and the Republica with him, and fears no evil. The insurgents in Sao Paulo are openly in favor of the restoration of the Empire, and the State of Santa Catarina is openly in favor of Mello and his cause.

A CURRANT BUSH KILLS A WALNUT TREE.

An old black walnut tree was cut down in Flatbush, L. L. An old black walnut tree was cut down in Flatbush, L. L., yesterday. It was twenty-three feet in circumference, and is said to have been one of the oldest trees on Long Island. Joseph Wurzler, of the Dime Savings Bank, in Brooklyn, was the owner of the tree, and sold it to John Reis, a real estate dealer, for $10. In turn Mr. Reis sold it to William G. Schwarzwaelder, president of the Knickerbocker Fleid Club. It was his intention to make tables and ornamental relies from the wood, and present them as mementoes to the Midwood and Knickerbocker clubs.

When the tree fell yestenday a remarkable discovery was made. The tree was found to have a hole four feet in diameter extending from the roots through its centre to the first of its branches. MILITARY ATHLETES MEET

ANNUAL GAMES OF THE SEVENTH REGI-

SUCCESSFUL CONTESTS IN THE ARMORY RUN WITH RAPIDITY AND PRECISION. The men of muscle of the 7th Regiment met last night in athletic contest in the armory at Sixtyseventh-st. and Park-ave., and for more than two hours they entertained and amused a large and representative throng of spectators. The swift-footed heroes of the Olympian games could not have created more enthusiasm or shown more skill than did the brawny athletes of the 7th Regiment, and while there was only one record broken there was good work done and fast time shown in all the other contests. The games were the twenty-fourth semi-annual indoor ones of the regiment. The referee was Colonel Daniel Appleton and the other officials in charge were Lieutenant-Colonel George Moore Smith, Major William H. Kipp, Captain Charles E. Lydecker, Captain George W. Rand, track judges; Adjutant Charles A. Appleton, Lieutenant Walter S. Wilson and Lieutenant Robert McLean, field judges; Captain Augustus W. Con-over, Captain James T. Harper, Captain Willard C. Fisk, Captain James B. Dewson, inspectors; Samuel C. Austin, judge of walking: Alexander A. Jor-dan, handleapper: Major A. P. Montant, Sergeant William A. Jennings and William A. Bayler, time keepers: Lieutenant James E. Schuyler, Thomas J. Conroy, Clemens F. Muller, F. W. Colwell, scorers; Sergeant John T. Fisher, cierk of the course; A. Y. Pringle, John D. Thees and Floyd E. Baker, assistant clerks of the course; Samuel D. See, starter; Frederick W. Burns, announcer.

The regiment men antagonized the League of American Wheelmen last night by not applying to it for permission to hold the bicycle races, and they will probably be disqualified, but the regiment men are an independent set, not caring much what the Amateur Athletic Union does. A distinctive and interesting feature of the games was that they began promptly on time and were carried through with a military precision which was totally different from the way in which the ma-jority of such affairs are managed. There was nothing to suggest improvement in the management of those who had charge of the games, and they deserved all the credit which they received from the much-pleased spectators. The contests of the evening and the winners were

THE CROWD WAS DISAPPOINTED. DISGUSTED AT THE FARCICAL ENDING OF THE TWENTY-FIVE MILE RACE BETWEEN

HORSEMAN AND BICYCUIST. The contests between the horsemen and the blcycle riders at the Madison Square Garden last night furnished anything but the good sport expected, and the 3,000 people jeered and hooted to their hearts' content. The great struggle of the evening was expected to be the twenty-five mile race between Ashinger, the champion long-distance bicycle rider and Alexandre, the horseman, on his two fast thoroughbreds. The race was a farce, and was ended amid the vigorous and indignant hisses of

Alexandre before they had gone a mile in the Alexandre before they had gone a mile in the twenty-five-mile race, lost heart and feil off his horse and the same thing was repeated on his second mount. Many of those present said that it was piain that he fell off his horses intentionally, after he had seen he was beaten. The blcyclist. Ashinger, continued for ten miles of the race and the decision was given to him.

The horseman rode on a dirt track on the outer edge of the ring, and the blcyclist on a board track on the inner edge. An allowance was made to the horses on the longer distance raced. The first contest was a mile race between "Dick" Howell, the English blcyclist, and George R. Easton, the pony rider, on his pony Sam Hinkle. Easton won by fifty yards in 2:31-15.

The second contest was a half-rolle race, between

The second race.

The third and last was a half-mile race between Ashinger and George R. Easton on his pony. The bleyelist won easily by about fifty yards. After the contests an enthusiastic crowd of bleyelists gathered in the ring and cheered their champion. TOUCHDOWNS MADE BY THE PRINCETONS.

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 9.—Ward, left halfback, who carried the ball over Yale's goal line, leads the Princeton players in the record of touchdowns made during the season, with a total of twelve in eleven games played. Trenchard played in thirteen games, making five touchdowns. The records of the other DON FULANO SOLD AT AUCTION FOR $3,500. San Francisco, Dec. 9.—Horses belonging to the Undine stables were auctioned to-day. Don Fulano, who beat Morello and Charmion Thursday, brought $3,500, Revolver $2,000, Tigress $1,375, Return $1,150, Donohue $1,350. Five others brought $780 each.

PITCHER CLARKSON WILL COACH YALE. New-Haven, Dec. 8.—The Yale Baseball Association has engaged John Clarkson, the professional pitcher, to coach the candidates for the 'Varsity nine next spring.

Washington, Dec. 9.—It was cold, damp and cheerless at Bennings to-day, and the rain kept all away but the regulars. Three favorites, two third choices and one outsider carried off the purses. In the fourth race Starter Gartison did not drop his flag, and Clerico, thinking it would be no go, pulled up W. B., and the latter got the worst of the break. Garrison afterward declared he had dropped his flag, and his word was accepted by the judges. Summary:

NEW FEATURES AT THE HAGENEECK SHOW. Two new features were added to the programme of Hagenbeck's trained animals at Tattersall's last night. "Loisette" appeared with his ten storks in what was called "The Storks Circus." Incidentally a trained dog and a monkey were introduced, and the feats performed by all the actors were received with applause. The "company" wound up the performance with a short pantonime—"Who Killed Cock Robin"?—in which Libtle Katle, who is neither a stork or a monkey, but a pretty little girl, just about big enough to make one fair meal for the performing lien, made her debut. The other new feature was Weston's performing seals. These rang bells and performed other tricks, and one of the troupe distinguished himself by being held up by his faws as he clung to a piece of wood. The name of this accomplished amphiblian is "Mr. Bibby." The act was ended by a railyo of artillery fired by the united strength of the seal company. The regular programme was well received, as usual.
